Ten Thousand Soldiers Attack the Greek Positions.

AMERICAN WARSHIP THERE.

Simultaneously With the Assault at Velesino the Turks Try Their Power at Tatar, Where They Are Driven Back.

Athens, May 6.—Ten thousand Turks attacked the Greek position at Velesino. The fire ceased at 4 p. m. and it is evident that the Greeks have met with great success.

There has been great slaughter at Pharsalos, where the battle is proceeding. Crown Prince Constantine telegraphs as to the engagement at Velesino: "With God's help our side has conquered."

Simultaneously with the attack at Velesino, the Turks attacked the Greek outposts at Tatar, near Pharsalos. It is said that both attacks have been repulsed by the Greeks. General Smolensk says: "The brigade at Velesino is deluged with blood."

A Schooner Captured.

Athens, May 6.—The Greek fleet has captured at the entrance of the gulf of Salonica a schooner in which Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, the Anglo-American member of parliament, who recently visited the Turks, was. The vessel will be taken to the Piræus for examination.

Muslims Sentenced to Death.

Constantinople, May 6.—Advices received here from Tokat say that the court which is trying the Mussulmans implicated in the massacre at that place has thus far sentenced six men to death and others to imprisonment for from 7 to 15 years.

An American Warship.

Athens, May 6.—An American man-of-war has joined the international squadron at Phalerum. The Greek government has protested to the powers against the acts of violence and rapine being committed by the Turks in Thessaly.

Left the Dardanelles.

Salonica, May 6.—It is officially announced that eight Turkish warships have left the Dardanelles and, after proceeding to the Cassandra peninsula, sailed for the island of Lemnos.

Heavy War Expenses.

London, May 6.—A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says that the special and extraordinary expenses of the war department from March 13, 1896, to April 13, 1897, were £3,500,000.

Fighting Begins at Aivala.

Athens, May 6.—A private dispatch received here from the front says that the battle between the Greeks and Turks began at Aivala, between Velesino and Pharsalos.

Turkish Troops at Pharsalos.

Larissa, May 6.—Six divisions of Turkish troops have marched forward to Pharsalos, and it is understood here that the port has given Edhem Pasha a free hand.

MUNICIPAL REFORMERS.

Names of the Executive Committee and Election of Officers.

Louisville, May 6.—In the presence of a large number of distinguished delegates and a crowd of interested spectators, the third annual conference of the Nation Municipal league and the fifth meeting for good city government met in the Exchange hall of the board of trade. President Hartwell of the local Good City Government club called the meeting to order and introduced Mayor Todd, who, in a happy speech, offered the welcome of the city of Louisville. The response for the delegates was made by Mayor Ochs of Chattanooga.

Treasurer George Burnham of Philadelphia submitted his report showing that the finances of the body are in a satisfactory condition. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: James O. Carter, New York, vice president; Charles Richardson, Philadelphia, vice president; Clinton Rogers Woodruff, Philadelphia, secretary; George Burnham, Jr., Philadelphia, treasurer; executive committee, William G. Low, Brooklyn; Charles Burnham, Baltimore; Frank N. Hartwell, Louisville; George W. Guthrie, Pittsburgh; George W. Ochs, Chattanooga; Harry A. Garfield, Cleveland; H. Herbert Welsh, Philadelphia; F. L. Siddons, Washington; Dudley Tibbets, Troy; J. A. Miller, Providence; J. A. Butler, Milwaukee.

Chi Psi Fraternity.

New York, May 6.—The fifty-sixth annual convention of the Chi Psi fraternity was in session and will end with a banquet.

MANEUVERS IN CUBA.

Captain General Weyler Arrives at Cienfuegos.

AMMUNITION IS CAPTURED.

Spanish Soldiers at Reforma and the Cavalry of General Gomez Have an Engagement—Repair Train Near Minas Dynamited.

Havana, May 6.—Captain General Weyler arrived at Cienfuegos, province of Santa Clara, coming by rail from Yambela, where he landed from the cruiser Pizarro, going thence by train to Sagua.

General Suarez, being informed that a quantity of war material for the insurgents had been landed near the mouth of the river Mosquito, province of Pinar del Rio, sent detachments of Spanish troops in that direction with the result that they captured an insurgent camp at Tallo and another at Ojo de Agua. The enemy left five men killed and the government forces captured 63 boxes of ammunition containing 35,600 cartridges for the Spanish Mauser rifle and the American Remington rifle.

The Tuetuan battalion at Reforma, province of Santa Clara, is officially reported to have been engaged with the cavalry of General Maximo Gomez, inflicting considerable loss on the insurgent's force, which retired by way of the woods to Sanferminado.

The Spaniards had two captains, a lieutenant and 12 privates wounded. A scouting detachment of the Spanish troops recently found two dynamite bombs on the railroad between Sancti Spiritus and Tunas and province of Santa Clara.

A local guerrilla force, while reconnoitering in the vicinity of the plantation of Ynguarri, near Calimonte, province of Mantanzas, captured a box containing 16 new Remington rifles.

The insurgents have dynamited a telegraph line repair train near Minas, between Nuevitas and Puerto Principe, killing two and wounding four soldiers and volunteers.

A passenger train which was coming along at the time had a very narrow escape from disaster. Ex-Governor Ordaz of Puerto Principe, was recently appointed governor of the province of Santiago de Cuba.

Views of Lieutenant Ferrer.

Havana, May 6.—Lieutenant Colonel Ferrer, who has been operating against the insurgents in the districts of Yaguajay, province of Santa Clara, says that part of the province and a part east of the Ciénaga de Zapata is favorable to peace. He adds that the insurgents are unable to face the Spanish forces.

Surrender of Sotopence.

Havana, May 6.—The insurgent leader, Calixto Sotopence, his adjutant and 16 of their followers have surrendered to the Spanish authorities at Sancti Spiritus.

Collides With the Motor.

New York, May 6.—The United States monitor Terror which passed out to quarantine bound to sea, collided with the steam yacht Penelope which has been on a pleasure cruise. She sailed from Bermuda April 26 for the Chesapeake. She has lost her foretop mast and has her bulwark and starboard bow stove in. She passed in quarantine at 1:48. The monitor Terror returned.

Sensation in Dedance.

Dedance, O. May 6.—Miss Myrna Knapp and Edward E. Travis were married while on their way to a card party Friday evening. On Sunday Travis disappeared and his present location is unknown. Miss Knapp is prostrated, and to add to her misery the board of education has called a special meeting to remove her from her position as school teacher.

On a Fishing Expedition.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., May 6.—The Oneida, Mr. E. C. Benedict's steam yacht which has been anchored in the bay off Gray Gables since Friday, left here with ex-President Cleveland, ex-Secretary Carlisle and ex-Postmaster General Wilson on board. Bad weather has prevented fishing until now.

Gold Democrats Hold Primaries.

New York, May 6.—The National, or gold Democratic party held primary elections and chose members of the assembly district committees. The plan of organization under which the primaries were held also provides for the election of delegates from the assembly districts to the county committee. This election will take place next Monday when the assembly district committees elected will hold meetings.

UNIDENTIFIED BODIES.

Photographs Taken of Those Recovered From the Paris Fire.

Paris, May 6.—The unidentified bodies as well as the jewels recovered from the debris have been photographed by the Bertillon method.

The funeral services of the victims has been fixed for the Cathedral of Notre Dame. M. Faure will attend, and Pere Richard will probably officiate.

At the night session of the cabinet it was decided to ask the chamber of deputies for a special credit in aid of the needy families. The minister of justice communicated to his colleagues the first results of the inquiries. The investigating magistrate, M. Bertu, reports that there was great carelessness and imprudence in the principal arrangements for the bazaar.

Mrs. Porges was the only American victim. She was a Miss Welsweiler. Her daughter accompanied her to the bazaar and escaped uninjured. The family reside in Vienna.

The scene of the Champs Elysee is like that on popular fete days. The throngs are enormous and multitudes of carriages are driving about. From time to time a solemn hush falls upon the crowd, and every head is bared as the hearse passes by.

Further particulars regarding the finding of the remains of the Duchess d'Alencon show that the secretary of the prefecture, accompanied by the maid of the duchess and a footman, belonging to the household of the duke, examined the rows of bodies. The two servants stopped before a blackened and mutilated corpse, whose abdomen was torn open. They declared that it was the remains of their mistress and also sent for the dentist of the duchess. The latter after examining the corpse for half an hour declared that it was not that of the duchess.

He claimed there was a tooth too many in the head, but the servants insisted, whereupon the dentist and two doctors operated upon the upper jaw and then the dentist was able to formally identify the remains as being those of the Duchess d'Alencon.

Her Sister's Death.

Vienna, May 6.—Not until Wednesday had the Emperor and Empress of Austria heard that the Duchess d'Alencon was among the victims. The empress was devotedly attached to her sister and is completely overcome by the bereavement. The dinner which was to be given to the queen regent and the Queen of Holland at the Chateau Lainz, where the emperor and empress are staying, has been canceled. Mme. Josephine Porges, one of the victims, was a near relative of the well known Vienna banker, Ephrussi.

Daughter-in-Law Barred Out. New York, May 6.—The will of the late Howard Potter, the banker who died recently in London, was filed for probate in the surrogate's office here. By its terms Cora Urquhart Potter, wife of the decedent's son, James Brown Potter, is expressly excluded from any participation in the estate, and her children are also cut off.

CYCLOMETERS, $1

LIMA CYCLE SUPPLY CO., 217 SOUTH MAIN ST.

Goods are Going Fast and Furious.

Such a rush of customers, such a sweeping away of stock was never before seen in the city of Lima. The people come singly, they come in couples, they come in groups, they come in crowds, and the way they took advantage of the bargains offered cannot be adequately described in cold type.

THERE ARE REASONS FOR THIS RUSH.

Never before have such wonderful bargains been offered in this city. Never before have prices been so ruthlessly slashed. Never before has there been such excellent reasons for cutting ever yprice down to the lowest notch.

IT IS AN UNPARALLELED ATTACK ON PRICES.

A sale of this character is far-reaching—it hits every Suit of Clothing, every Overcoat, every bit of Furnishing Goods. In fact, every department of the store is drawn into the landslide. Having decided to quit the Clothing business, we know that we must crushingly break every price record in order to quickly clear the store. We know that we must give such an exhibition of pulling down prices as Lima retailing has never approached. Therefore, we unhesitatingly announced that we should Sweep the Store With an Avalanche of Bargains!

That would so forcibly impress themselves upon the minds of all that they would never forget the price destruction of this Great Closing Out Sale. The past few days have shown that we have accomplished our purpose.

S. A. ARMSTRONG, Chairman.

FLOYD AYER, Secretary.

The wonder grows, that while the balance of trade in favor of the United States is greater than ever before, gold should go out to Europe as it is now going out. Is it a movement in the direction of another bond issue?

The steamship La Gasconne, from New York, carried $4,000,000 in gold to Europe on Saturday. The exports of specie from New York last week were $7,507,432, of which $6,537,023 was gold, against $2,419,537 the corresponding week last year.

Monday's statement of the condition of the treasury of the United States showed on hand an available cash balance of $231,254,221; gold reserve, $149,609,337. Government bonds were weak. State bonds were dull and railroad bonds were firm.

From every crossroads and village and from every town and city and from the rear end of palace cars, and in every Republican newspaper in the United States, before the presidential election, it was proclaimed by Republican stumpers and Republican editors that if McKinley was elected President prosperity would undergo immediate revival everywhere, where as if Bryan was elected there would be a general closing of shops, furnaces, forges, foundries; that meditated enterprises would be abandoned; that wages would be cut down and the value of the silver dollar reduced one-half. Now we are coolly told by Republican papers that those who put faith in the assurances that Mr. McKinley was "the advance agent of prosperity" have been disappointed, and that "it could not have been otherwise." Well, we have the satisfaction of knowing that we have not been disappointed, for we took no stock in the assurances made in behalf of McKinley and prosperity.—Wayne County Democrat.

The United States are getting to be a great egg exporting country. In 1895, the number of eggs exported was 1,812,000; in 1896 the number reached 3,936,000. The export figures for this year indicate a further increase. The hens of the United States, therefore, have nothing to fear from the competition of the hens of other countries. They need no tariff for protection.

B. G. Dunn & Co., in their weekly Review of Trade for Saturday, says "business is disappointing," and Bradstreet's Trade Review for Saturday says, "the more conspicuous features of trade are less satisfactory." The business failures throughout the United States were 244, compared with 216 for the preceding week. Wheat had declined 5 cents a bushel. The gold exports had reached $6,500,000, because of the demands of Austria and China for gold.

We were disappointed in seeing our old friend, George W. Disman, defeated for representative of Allen county, and would now rather see him make the race again for senator. But we see that his name is being considered as in the list of available men for the nomination for member of Board of Public Works. He would make an excellent official, if he should be elected. And if the boom doesn't come faster the outs will be in this year in Ohio, and a Democratic nomination is worth having.—Delphos Courier.

The greatest enormity of the McKinley act was the wool and woolen schedule, and the Dingley bill now to come forward will practically re-enact word for word and rate for rate the wool and woolen schedule of the law of 1890. Here is where Mr. Cleveland centered his fight for tariff reform, and where he appeared to have won a decisive victory. But that victory now fades from sight, and with it to all appearances the chief results of twenty years of reform agitation. The party of Grant and Garfield finally repudiates their policy, and confronted with the need of raising more revenue, as Grant was confronted in 1874, it chooses just the opposite course from what was then advised under singularly similar conditions.

CARPETS ARE DEARER.

Manufacturers of carpets have notified jobbers throughout the country of an advance from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents per yard on Ingrains, velvets and tapestries to apply on unfilled orders June 1. This in anticipation of a raise of duty on third-class wool, which has had the effect of increasing prices to manufacturers since the result of the November election became known.

Of course, carpets will be dearer, and so will all grades and kinds of goods. Now, who pays this increase? Either the consumer does or doesn't, and Occasions, a new journal of political economy, answers:

Either "the foreigner pays the tax," as McKinley says, in which event the nation has let itself down to the moral plane of a parasitic pauper or of an army contractor of the earlier '60s; or the tax for the selfish gratification of the manufacturer, the banker, the clamor for improvements in his district, the farmer or the pensioner, must have been extorted from the pockets of the other classes or from the consumer at large. It is noteworthy also that at no time has any party advocating legislation of this kind had the moral hardihood to admit the fact, so that to the actual thievery must be added the crime of glossing it over by false pretenses. Whatever the partisan cry has been, it has always had in it the voice of expediency, not of righteousness, the groan of mortal gains at the expense of the immortal soul.

In an able article in the last Forum, Prof. Davidson thus defines the position of the different European powers upon the Turkey-Greece situation:

Russia wishes to keep both Turkey and Greece in a moribund state until some European complication shall arise enabling her to seize the territory of both, erect her throne at Constantinople, restore the Eastern Empire, and proceed to extend it, with its Asiatic despotisms, to the whole of Asia. England would fain prevent this; but she too has her selfish projects, and is strongly averse to allowing the territory of the Turk, which forms the bridge of trade between Europe and Asia, to fall into the hands of a capable, unscrupulous commercial people like the Greeks.

Austria wishes to appropriate the Balkan Provinces and extend her dominion to the Aegean sea; Germany wishes a combined effort on the part of the Empires, Russia, Austria and Germany, to stem the whole modern movement toward democracy and national freedom and to restore the dehumanizing despotism of the Middle Ages in Church and State.... And the same is true of Austria.... The aristocratic element in England.... sympathizes with the despot.... France, the only really unselfish and chivalrous friend that Greece ever had, desires to remain friends with Russia in the hope that the despotic Power will some day help her to free Alsace and Lorraine from German despotism. Poor, deluded, misguided France! Finally, Italy, amid her chaos, fears to break with the Triple Alliance, although its other members snub her on every occasion.

POLICE NEWS.

Several Cases Disposed of This Morning.

Of the several boys who were arrested for the theft of some copper wire belonging to the Lima Railway Co., all were released except Dave Bruno, who was charged with stealing some wire from a tool box, while the other lads only gathered up pieces along the track, thinking they had been thrown away. The Bruno boy was taken before Justice Mowen who sentenced him to a fine of $10 and a term of five days in the county jail.

Fred Dougal, alias James Quigley, charged with unlawfully riding on a train, and Fred Mitchell, colored, charged with carrying concealed weapons, were fined $7.50 each in Justice Atmure's court. They paid all the money they had and were allowed to depart.

Prentiss Elch and a man by the name of Wise, arrested by policemen Goebel and McCoy yesterday afternoon, were released.

The one-legged colored man, who has caused the police considerable trouble for the past week, was fired out of the city.

Sergeant Watts, detective Roney and patrolman Goebel drove a gang of tramps out of town from the south side this morning.

FELL FROM A FENCE.

John Linderman's Son Injured Yesterday Afternoon.

About 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon the 12-year-old son of John Linderman, of 1107 Forest avenue, was badly injured by a fall.

The lad had climbed upon a shed adjoining the circus grounds and when climbing down he fell from a high fence and was so badly injured that he could not get up. He was taken home in Grosjean's ambulance and at first it was feared his back was broken, but Dr. Rudy, who was summoned, found no bones broken. The boy's breast is injured and his back is badly sprained, but his condition is not considered dangerous.

A BOY INJURED.

In a Collision With a Horse and Buggy Yesterday Afternoon.

The young son of Robert Coleman, of the south side, was painfully bruised but fortunately not seriously injured yesterday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock.

The boy was riding a colt south of town and William Bond, who was out driving a spirited animal, drove around a farm wagon suddenly and his rig collided with the colt. The boy was thrown to the ground and badly bruised and the colt's right hind leg was broken. The boy was taken home and though he is unable to be about as usual, his condition is not considered serious. The colt was removed to Mr. Coleman's barn. Dr. Blattenberg reduced the fracture and hopes to prevent the anticipated necessity of killing the animal.

The Remains of the Suicide Interred This Morning.

Deceased's Mother and Sister the Only Relatives in Attendance.

The remains of Maggie Clair, the young girl who committed suicide at Boop's resort, on Tanner street, Tuesday evening, were consigned to their final resting place in Woodlawn cemetery about noon to-day. The only relatives of the deceased who were present were her mother, Mrs. W. J. Cross, of Rosellus, O., and her sister, Miss Minnie Clair, of Spencerville. The latter is said to be a very estimable young lady, and in respect to her, Rev. Miller, of the Lutheran church, consented to conduct the funeral services, which were held from Grosjean's undertaking establishment at 11 o'clock this morning. Rev. Miller's funeral sermon was brief but impressive, and the grief of the sister of the deceased was pitiful.

The post mortem examination held over the remains yesterday afternoon, was conducted by Coroner Stueber and Drs. Bates, Weadock and Steiner, and resulted in a verdict of death by morphine poisoning.

Mrs. Cross, who left for her home in Paulding county this afternoon, states that her wayward daughter was 17 years of age last October.

FINDLAY VS. LIMA.

Basket Ball Contest to Occur May 15.

The local association basket ball players of the Y. M. C. A. are anxious to exhibit their ability on the most popular and scientific game in the country. Capt. Morris, with his team, will buck against the representative team of our rival city, Findlay. It means a great deal of stiff playing. It will take place at 8:30 Saturday evening at the Gymnasium. Seats will be given to ladies.

Up to date 97 business men have enrolled in the spring term class to open May 10, 1897, at 4:30 and 8 p. m. Every man should take an active part, and restore and promote the general health.

A prominent western newspaper recommends flax seed tea as an excellent remedy for whooping cough. It may be good, but it is not to be compared with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation will allay the violent fits of coughing and make them less frequent and less severe. It also liquefies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate. Complete recovery is much quicker, too, when this remedy is given. There is no danger in giving it to small children, as it is a pleasant syrup and contains nothing injurious. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by Melville, the druggist, old postoffice corner; C. W. Heister, 58 Public Square.

Baldwin Seats on Sale To-morrow.

Reserved seats will be on sale at Melville's drug store Friday morning for the opening performance of the Baldwin-Melville Co. The bill for Monday night is a great comedy, "The Devil's Web." One paid 30 cent ticket will admit two Monday night.

"HOW TO SAVE TIME. ON DRILLING WELLS!"

You must know there is a big loss of Power from your belts slipping. Well, we can stop that and so can you. If you will use GREEN SEAL BELT DRESSING on your belts.

Read what those drillers say:

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Feb. 20, '97. Your Dressing is just the thing; it covers wear on machinery, and with it we can run a belt that would tear in two if we had to make it tight enough to hold without the Dressing. It is not a good thing for belt manufacturers, but it is a "Daisy" for the users of belts. Besides we have no slipping now.

GRANT'S "HAMMERING."

The Soldiers as Anxious as the General to Fight to a Finish.

General Horace Porter, in "Campanella's War Grant," in "The Century," dealing with the battle of Cold Harbor, says:

There were critics who were severe in their condemnation of what Grant called "hammering," and Sherman called "pounding," but they were found principally among the stay at homes and especially the men who sympathized with the enemy. A soldier said one night when, reading by a campfire an account of a call issued by a disloyal newspaper at home for a public meeting to protest against the continued bloodshed in this campaign: "Who's shedding this blood anyhow? They better wait till we fellows down here at the front hold 'em 'enough'!" The soldiers were as anxious as their commander to fight the war to a finish and be allowed to return to their families and their business.

Grant could have effectively stopped the carnage any time by withholding from battle. He could have avoided all bloodshed by remaining north of the Rapidan, intrenching and not moving against his enemy, but he was not placed in command of the armies for that purpose. It had been demonstrated by more than three years of campaigning that peace could be secured only by whipping and destroying the enemy. No one was more desirous of peace, no one was possessed of a heart more sensitive to every form of human suffering, than the commander, but he realized that paper bullets are not effective in warfare, he knew better than to attempt to hew rocks with a razor, and he felt that in campaigning the hardest blows bring the quickest relief.

He was aware that in Wellington's armies the annual loss from disease was 113 out of 1,000, in our Mexican war 152 and in the Crimea 600, and that in the campaigns thus far in our own war more men had died from sickness while lying in camp than from shot and shell in battle. He could not select his ground for fighting in this continuous siege of fortified lines, for, though he and his chief officers applied all their experience and skill in endeavors to maneuver the enemy out of strong positions before attacking him, his foe was often too able and wily to fall into the traps set for him and had to be struck in positions which were far from Grant's choosing. When Lee stopped fighting, the cause of secession was lost. If Grant had stopped fighting, the cause of the Union would have been lost. He was assigned one of the most appalling tasks ever intrusted to a commander. He did his duty fearlessly to the bitter end and triumphed. In 13 months after Lincoln handed him his commission of lieutenant general and intrusted to him the command of the armies the war was virtually ended.

Insects in Cold Storage.

Cold storage companies derive a large income in summer from keeping valuable furs, woollens and rugs, which might be injured by the larvae of clothes moths, clothes beetles and other insects which feed on such goods. It has been the common practice of the companies to keep the goods at a temperature of 12 degrees to 20 degrees F. during the summer.

Dr. L. O. Howard, entomologist of the United States department of agriculture, made a number of experiments with destructive insects and froze them to death at various temperatures up to 45 degrees or 50 degrees. As the insects died at a moderately low temperature, it is evident that the cold storage companies which put their stores in 20 degrees or 12 degrees temperature are wasting a good deal of energy, as a 40 degree temperature is low enough to protect the goods.

The insects which shivered in the interests of science and cold storage companies were the common clothes moth, the cabinet beetle, the black carpet beetle, the dark meal worm and the leather beetle. It is said that the black carpet beetle on feeling the temperature going down wrapped itself in a Turkish rug, hoping to weather the unusual frost. It was frozen stiff in the rug, having the general appearance of a mummified beetle when unwrapped. The meal worm was equally unfortunate. It tried to keep up its circulation by eating wheat.—New York Sun.

STREET CAR FARES.

Incidents That Led Up to the Two Dollar Change Rule.

The court of appeals of the city of New York, in the matter of making change on street railroads, has decided that conductors need not change $5 in order to collect a single fare. All street railroad companies are required to have a rule to the effect that the conductors furnish change to the amount of $2. Beyond this they need not go unless they choose. If the conductor demands fare and the passenger has nothing less than $5 with which to pay it, the conductor is upheld by law in stopping the car and requesting the passenger to get off. Failing to do this, he can use reasonable force in ejecting the delinquent. Actions for assault and battery which under almost any other circumstances would hold are not admitted in cases like this in New York state.

It is not difficult to see how it might be extremely inconvenient, if not impossible, for a conductor to change $5 notes for 5 cent fares. The conductor starts out with but a small amount of change, and it might occur that a number of persons had no small bills.

Some years ago a conductor on a street railroad in a western city, who was understood as not particularly obliging, was made the victim of a practical joke that nearly upset him. A couple of young women boarded a car on their way down town. They really had no change and nothing smaller than $5. They offered it, and the conductor rather rudely declined to take it. There was no law or rule limiting the amount he was to make change for, so the girls insisted, and the man had no alternative but to stop his car at a corner and go into a store and get the change. He was delayed and came back very angry, in consequence of which he made some remarks not strictly in accordance with the usages of polite society, ending up with the declaration that if those girls came on his car again with a $5 note to change he would put them off. A few days afterward a demure-looking damsel boarded his car at a long distance up town. She offered a $5 bill with an apology, saying it was the smallest she had and would he please change it. He attempted to do so and succeeded only after all the other passengers had paid in their fares.

A few blocks lower down, on came another miss with another $5 note. This the man was obliged to get change at a store near by where he always stopped to water his horses. Some distance farther this experience was repeated, until, before the shopping district was reached, seven $5 bills had been presented by seven young women, who from all appearances would never so much as permit butter to melt in their mouths. Long before No. 7 made her appearance the passengers had caught the little game, and as the conductor was known to be of an exceedingly irascible disposition they had their own fun over it. The girls did not even look at one another, nor did they give a single hint that they were acquainted.

It is doubtless incidents of this sort that have made the restriction to $2 necessary.—New York Ledger.

Scientists' Wires.

Apocryph of the droll surprises that await the woman who marries a man addicted to practical science the following anecdote is related:

On the Palisades a cottage had been erected containing a laboratory for the development of untold scientific mysteries. One day the unscientific bride observed a water bug—which had apparently materialized for the occasion—endeavoring unsuccessfully to climb out of a deep tub. Not having a fondness for bugs, she called to her husband to come and seize him and put him to death. The husband gallantly rushed to the rescue, but, becoming interested in the scientific aspect of the creature, slowly replied:

"No, I'll not kill him. I'll take his weight and the angle at which he invariably slips back into the tub, and then we shall have his coefficient of adhesion."

Whereat the amazed lady became speechless, marveling great at the resources of the scientific masculine mind.—Youth's Companion.

When They All Fell In.

With the gayer young men of the town, too, Washington Irving played a spirited part. "The Nino Worthies" and "The Lads of Kilkenny" were the names under which a group of them met and dined and frolicked. Most of these worthies attained distinction of one sort or another in their later years, and the conscience of the day suffered no great shock from their convivial doings. A story is gayly told of one of them returning alone from a dinner and falling through a grating in the sidewalk. He could not get out and feared an ill night of it, but one by one the rest of the party which he had left fell into the same pit, and there they spent the remainder of the night happily together.—Bookman.

A CHINESE EXECUTION.

How Murderers Are Killed in the Land of the Celestials.

A correspondent of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer thus describes a Chinese execution:

The victim, Lai Mit, had murdered a Chinese detective, and his punishment, with all its barbaric repulsiveness, was made as conspicuously public as possible as an example to evildoers. Extensive arrangements were made for the carrying out of the execution. Flags were flying from the battlements of the old fort and from three war junks lying near the pier, and large numbers of Chinese were on the beach.

About 3:15 p. m. a war junk was sighted around the point, and a salute was fired from the fort. This was the signal for the final arrangements for the reception of the Chinese officials. A salute of three guns from the fort was replied to by the Nantau junk, and then the junks alongside the pier opened fire. Other salutes from the fort were followed by loud beating of gongs and salutes from the junks.

The soldiers now cleared a square on the beach close to a table at which were placed three chairs. The first to arrive from the junk were the Nantau court officials, who arranged the table for the reception of the mandarin. The wooden cage containing the prisoner was taken up out of the hold of the junk and carried along the pier by coolies and set down in front of the mandarin's table. The prisoner was rather roughly pulled out of the cage and forced down upon his haunches. He scowled fiercely on all around him, muttering imprecations upon his guards. One of the officials stuck a long bamboo, to which was attached a long envelope bearing Chinese characters, down the back of his chair.

All this time the crowd had been jostling and pushing round the prisoner, and the miserable specimens of cooly soldiers were ordered to clear the way to the execution ground. After several unsuccessful attempts had been made to clear a passage the soldiers, brandishing their rattans, eventually cleared sufficient space to allow of the passage of the prisoner and his guard. The executioner, a tall, muscular Chinese, followed behind, carrying his sheathed knife.

At the execution ground the prisoner was ordered to kneel down on his knees. He was shackled with old rusty irons, his hands being tied behind his back. His cue was wound around his head, and his jacket was pulled down from his neck, which was quite bare. The executioner withdrew the knife, a weapon about five feet long, from the sheath and set the prisoner in position, signifying to him to bend his head forward, and emphasizing his instructions by kicking the prisoner lightly in the chest. The executioner then pulled away the envelope from the prisoner's neck.

Punctually at 4:40 o'clock the executioner swung down his blade, and in one stroke the head was severed from the body, just as Lai Mit was cursing the delay. The head was thrown face upward, and the eyes were staring wide open. The soldiery, immediately on the fall of the knife, fired off a running volley. The executioner lifted the head and placed it at the top of the lifeless trunk and then cut the strings which secured the shackles around the arms and legs. Among the large crowd of Europeans who witnessed the execution was one woman. The head of the deceased was hung up in a cage which was lying on the beach. The body will probably be allowed to remain on the beach for some time.

How the Lantern Was Invented.

King Alfred the Great is credited with originating the lantern. He was so bothered by the candle flames blowing in the wind that he protected them by putting the candles in cow horns, which he ordered to be scraped thin. Our grandfathers made lanterns by punching holes and slits in properly shaped pieces of tin, which were then soldered together. The light which came through the little cuts was always very dim and flickering. It was this kind of lantern which the old town watchmen used to carry when they went about calling the hours and the weather in rhyme:

The one o' the clock; midnight is past,
Sleep on, good fellows, the time thou hast,
For rise ye must at early dawn.
'Tis one o' the clock and Tuesday morn.

Blood, tissue, health and strength are generated from the food we eat; therefore, the maintenance of a vigorous digestion is quite essential to life. To strengthen and help digestion, use Dr. John W. WORK HORSES TO LET.

Many Hired Daily—Men Who Hire Them and Why They Do It.

A man who had seen at one time and another here and there in town a sign like this, "Good Work Horses to Let," and had a vague idea that the few work horses that were let must be hired by men who were not able to buy a horse, found upon inquiry that his ideas on this subject were very inadequate. It is of course possible that a work horse might be hired by a man not able to buy one, but it would quite as likely be hired by a man or a firm that could afford to buy 1,000 horses if it were desirable to do so. As a matter of fact, work horses are hired by a great variety of men.

There are stable owners who make a business of letting work horses, and work horses are sometimes let by other large business concerns employing many horses which might not all be fully employed the year round; so might be the case, for example, with the horses of an ice company or a street sprinkling concern; or other enterprise using many horses whose business runs more or less in seasons. It does not by any means follow that because a man hires a work horse he must take a poor one if he could get a good one, and he usually can get a good horse. Many of the work horses that are let are of the very best grade, fine draft horses that are well cared for and are in perfect condition. Work horses are let mostly to truckmen, but they are also let to many other users of horses.

At one establishment where work horses are let no horse is ever let to go out of the city. Most stables have customers who come to them when they want a horse and are known. The stranger is asked for a reference. The superintendents of stables where work horses are let have a wide acquaintance among truckmen; they know personally many of them, and the stranger is likely to be able to refer to somebody who is known. A man who has been for years in charge of a large stable which lets work horses in this manner said that he had never lost a horse.

Horses generally are better treated now than they formerly were, owing to the stringent enforcement of the laws against cruelty to animals and to greater consideration on the part of drivers. Of course there have always been men who treated horses kindly; there are more than ever of them now. No establishment owning work horses which it lets will ever let twice to a man who ill treated a horse.

Horses are cheaper than they used to be, and the price of hiring a work horse is less. Formerly $2 a day was charged for the hire of a work horse; now a good work horse can be hired for $1.50 a day, and the owner gives with the horse when it goes out a suitable noonday feed. A man who knows about these things say that, taking them altogether, there are thousands of work horses hired in this city daily.—New York Sun.

Etching on Leather.

A new thing in the line of fancy work is etching on leather. Undressed leather is required, and the implements of the craft are very simple—a bottle containing benzoline, which looks at first like an atomizer; to a round tube or rubber is fastened at one end a bulb, which is held in the left hand, while the platinum pointed pencil at the other end of the tube is held in the right hand and does the work. All you understand, are connected with the bottle, or the contents of the bottle, and by some mysterious process the platinum pencil is at a red heat all the time and thus etches the pattern upon the leather; the pattern is first drawn or traced upon the material. It is only necessary to trace the outlines of the design, because by keeping the pattern before one the shadows are easily added.

It is fascinating handiwork and requires no special skill with the pencil at the outset. Groups of Cupids, garlands of flowers, dragons and heraldic designs are best suited for this work. And the purpose to which a leather etching is put? One's first attempt may result in nothing more elaborate than a roll for music or a belt to wear with one's new spring suit. As skill is acquired, possibly a dado for the dining room may be compassed or new seats for the dining room chairs.—Chicago Record.

A Child's Tribute.

Mr. Edward Terry tells of a pretty incident which occurred during his Australian tour. "Do you know what I consider the most glowing tribute I ever received? The compliment came from a child. There was a crowded house, an intent audience, and humor had, for the instant, given place to pathos. You might have heard a pin drop, and I felt the tension of the house was at breaking point. The intense silence was broken by a childish voice—a girl's—who, turning to her parent, asked in a broken voice, 'Mother, is it real?'—Strand Magazine.

MOUNTAINS OF JAPAN.

They Are Built Upon a Small Scale, but Are Very Picturesque.

The Rev. Walter Weston has issued a book on mountaineering in Japan. Although the ranges of mountains in Japan are very beautiful, they do not, the writer informs us, "display the glories of glacier shrouded peaks, and the scale on which they are built is only two-thirds that of the famous Alps of Switzerland. But the picturesqueness of their valleys and the magnificence of the dark and silent forests that clothe their massive flanks surpass anything I have met with in European Alpine wanderings."

Asama Yama is the name of one of the most wonderful volcanoes in the mikado's kingdom. An easy walk from the ridge brought Mr. Weston to the edge of the mighty crater, "from whose honeycombed sides vast volumes of sulphurous steam roll up with a roar that rises and falls with awful weirdness. In the distance it resembles a great waterfall or the thundering of the breakers on the Pacific shore heard in the stillness of night. The circumference of the crater is about 1,300 yards, but its yet unfathomed depth is probably greater still. Those who have made the ascent of the volcano, as I have since done, by night and looked down into the cavernous abyss at the fires below will never forget the unearthly scene."

But Japan claims another peak which Mr. Weston declares is "one of the most striking peaks in the world." "From the summit," we learn, "the view is that of some vast relief map. Varying tints and shades lie over lake and forest, river, sea and plain. Westward and to the northwest the grandest objects of the landscape are the snow clad heights of the Japanese Alps, with the Komagatake range and nearer still the Koshu peaks and Akaishi rising up between us and them. Far away east and south stretch the blue waters of the Pacific, whose breakers curl in white lines at the mountain's base, 12,400 feet below. At our very feet the great crater presents an extraordinary sight. Excepting where the inner walls rise too abruptly from the crater floor to allow it to rest, ice or snow spreads a dazzling winding sheet over nearly the whole mountain top. Here and there huge icicles hang blue against the deep dull red and purple of the rocks inside the crater lip. All is cold and still as the grave. It is soon a positive relief to turn from all this deathly whiteness to let the eye rest on the vast expanse of country clad in all the tender freshness and warmth of color of its young spring life."

Like other countries, Japan has its legends. One of these is about Ariyaka Saemon and his wife. "On all the great sacred mountains of Japan a limit line has until the last few years been placed at the height up to which womankind might climb. The limit is called Nionindo, 'Woman's way,' but naturally enough it varies a good deal on different mountains. The wife of Ariyaka Saemon, however, was either so impelled by curiosity to see what was at the top of the wonderful peak or so desirous, new womanlike, of emulating her husband's feat that she transgressed the bounds of Nionindo and essayed to reach the actual summit. Her rashness met with its due reward, and she was immediately transformed into the Oba-ishi, which still bears witness to her sacrilege."

She Had the Belief.

"That poor little girl has a Christian science mamma," said a child to me in an awed whisper, pointing to a frail, undersized sprig of womanhood, "and she's afraid to tell her when she has a pain, and she comes to school when she can hardly stand up, and all the other girls feel awfully sorry for her." Another child bred in the new cult astonished her mother's visitor by appearing with a swollen face. "What is the matter with Ada?" cried the visitor. "Nothing," Ada is perfectly well," replied the maternal believer in universal health. "But her face—look at it!" cried the uninitiated Philistine. Still the mother denied, and still the friend protested. At last the happy parent explained, "She has the belief of mumps."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Blue Lobster Is Rare.

One of the very rarest of all marine creatures, the "wandering fish" not excepted, is the crustacean known as the indigo lobster. During the years 1890-1 the lobster men of New London, Conn., caught five of these wonders, two of them in the Fisher Island sound. Lobsters of that variety are so exceedingly rare that it is not known that more than two of that kind had ever been captured before in the history of the world. The capture of two blue lobsters off the coast of Maine in 1894 was reported, but on good authority it is said that the report was never verified.—Philadelphia Press.

ONE OF THE SHOP'S RULES.

A Glazier's Trick That Proved Futile in the Long Run.

A small boy had thrown a stone through the basement window, and the landlady sent the maid of all work around the corner to a glazier's. There was only one corner of the sheet of glass broken, but it would have been unsafe to leave it. "It will be $2," the glazier said, looking the job over, and after a little wrangling over the price the landlady told him to go ahead.

When he was gone for the glass, the landlady said to the girl:

"You see, I can get a glass for that picture in the dining room cut of this and will be just that much ahead."

There was a good deal of "cluttering up" about the work, but it was done finally, the glazier was paid and went. Ten minutes later the landlady went out to look at the piece of glass that was left, but it was gone.

"He took it with him," the girl said.

"Well, go right over there and bring it back," she said tartly. "You knew I wanted the glass."

The girl was gone five minutes, and she returned without it.

"He won't give it up. He says according to the rules of the shop that it belongs to him."

"The rules of the shop indeed! I'll show him," and she put on her bonnet with a little toss which looked bad for the glazier.

But he stood his ground unexpectably. There was the glass on the counter, but he stood close over it, protesting:

"It has der rules of der shop."

"Well, you'll see when my husband comes home," she said at last, backing out of the door, but the glazier only smiled.

Sure enough, the husband was bent on having the glass.

"Come over and point it out to me, and I'll fix him," he said doggedly.

The glazier saw them coming, but he was defiant.

"See here," began the husband, "you've stolen a piece of window glass out of my house."

"No, no. It has der rules of der shop."

"Hang the rules! Where is the glass?" turning to his wife. She pointed to it lying under a workbench. The husband reached for it and started out of the shop.

In an instant the proprietor was on the sidewalk, dancing on one leg, waving his arms and shouting:

"Bolice, bolice!"

Rather than face the trouble the man laid the glass down, and the two left the shop, walking briskly till they turned a corner.

"But just wait!" muttered the little woman.

Two days later there was a ring at the bell which the landlady answered. A boy in a tradesman's blouse was hesitating in the door.

"Mr. Glazingstein wants the hammer he left here the other day."

"Oh, no," chuckled the landlady, "it's the rules of the shop, that I never give hammers back when they are left here."

The boy looked abashed.

"I'll tell you," said the landlady. "You go back and say that when he returns my glass we'll talk about the hammer."

The boy went, and in a few minutes he came back with the glass.

"That's more like it," said the landlady, taking the pane from him. "Now go back and tell that old skinflint that I haven't seen his old hammer!"

And she hadn't, for a little later she saw the boy come out of a house on the opposite side of the street carrying the missing article.

But the glass is now in a picture frame on her dining room wall.—Chicago Tribune.

British Naval Nomenclature.

A correspondent of a London paper laments the "swaggering nomenclature of the British navy." Another correspondent suggests that such names as Bouncer and Insolent, which have grown while adorned the list, should be replaced by something in a different tone—the Ritualist, for instance, or the Thoughtful Radical. "Some years ago a classical poet in England likened the ironclad to a rhinoceros, and it is rather a wonder that the admiralty have not before this adopted the name of that powerful and self-asserting animal. These are his lines:

O concentration of brute force,
Rhinoceros of the deep;
Ongly Dolos, on whose shores
No soft Latens sleeps.
Sent from in thee for birth or love
Mid monster's furnace born—
The iron throated mine above:
Below, the ripping horn!

Hygienics.

"Rapid eating," explained the traveling physician at his free lecture, "is the curse of American civilization. Two-thirds of the sickness is caused by our national habit of eating a full meal in 15 minutes."

"I suppose," interjected Mr. Dismal Dawson, "that that there is the reason I'm so healthy. I ain't eat a full meal in 15 days."—Indianapolis Journal.

Isn't it a pity that so many women go through life as nervous, fretful invalids, all ways in sick bed or on the verge of it. They are to be sincerely pitied for the great majority have in them the making of healthy, amiable, capable wives and mothers. These cases become sadder still when it is realized that the sufferings they endure are unnecessary. Any woman can be healthy and amiable and helpful if she will take care of the health of those delicate organs that are essentially feminine.

The greatest known medicine for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures all weakness and disease of the organs that make womanhood and motherhood possible. It allays inflammation, soothes pain, and restores calm and strength to the shattered nerves. It prepares for womanhood and maternity. Over 60,000 women have testified to its virtues. Druggists sell it.

"I commenced using your medicine three days after my child was born," writes Mrs. A. J. Bryant, of Wilbraham, Hampden Co., Mass. (care of Western Academy). "It was the favorite, and I never got up so strong and well. I can do all my own work. I have recommended my friends to try the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

If somebody was offering to give away gold mines for the asking what a scrambling there would be. When a mine of health is offered there is some lively scrambling too. Over 60,000 people hurried to get Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser at $1.50 per copy. It has 1,008 pages with over 300 illustrations. Something over 60 of these pages relate to diseases peculiar to women. This book may now be had free. Send 21 one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y., the cost of mailing only, and get the book in paper covers; or, send 31 cents for cloth binding.

Miss Minnie Snook Becomes
the Bride of F. E. More.

WEDDED AT SIX O'CLOCK

Last Evening at the Residence of the Bride's Parents—Mr. and Mrs. More the Recipients of Many Beautiful Presents.

A beautiful May wedding was solemnized last evening at 6 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Snook, 464 north Elizabeth street, when Mr. and Mrs. Snook's only daughter, Miss Minnie, was united in holy wedlock with Mr. Frank E.
More, a popular employe of the Penna. R. R. Co.

The parlors at the Snook residence were tastefully decorated with palms and choice cut flowers, and when the hour arrived for the ceremony, the bride and groom took their positions in an alcove, while Miss Bernadine Taubken executed a beautiful wedding march at the piano. Rev. C.
Baum, pastor of the German Reformed Church, performed the marriage ceremony, using the beautiful ring service.

After congratulations were extended, the fifty guests who were present were served with an elaborate wedding supper, consisting of the following:

MENUS.
Mushroom Patties, Pickles.
Chicken, Creamed Potatoes.
Balls, Green Corn.
Ham, Bread and Butter.
Fruit Gelatine, Coffee, Olives.
Veal Salad, Water.
Ice Cream, Strawberries.
White Cake, Angel Food.
Fruit Cake.

The bride was attired in a handsome wedding gown of white orga-ndie, and the groom wore the conventional black. Mrs. More has been a Lima girl from her childhood and for several years was a teacher in the public schools, and has many warm an excellent young man who holds a lucrative position on the P. Ft. W. & C. R. R. They were recipients of a vast number of costly and useful wedding gifts, as a token of the high esteem in which they are held by their friends. Those present from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs.

Chas. Larimore, of Fort Wayne, and Miss Rhea Deaubler, of Cleveland.
Regrets were received from Garner, Rockwell, and Mason City, Iowa, and from Zanesville, O. The happy young people will begin housekeeping at once, at 468 North Elizabeth

LIMA SURE

To Recover Pay for the Elm Street
Improvement in 1891.

Albert J. Wise and Helen Wise, as executors of the estate of Jacob Wise, deceased, have entered suit against the city of Lima for $378.74.

The petition says that on November 10th, 1891, the city was indebted to King & Rumbaugh for work done on east Elm street grade for $300 and for the purpose of paying this indebtedness, the defendant issued to King & Rumbaugh an order upon its treasurer for $300, interest payable semi-annually. It was signed by J.
V. Smiley clerk. Each year after the granting of the order to Nov. 21, 1896, it was presented to the county treasurer and marked "not paid for want of funds." The plaintiffs claim, as executors, to be the legal owners of the order.

There is no money to pay the order and the defendant has failed to provide any funds for the fund and has refused to pay the order.

The court is asked to award judgment for the same with interest.

SAME OLD STORY.

Employes of the Northern Ohio
Are Out of Work.

PROSPERITY SIDETRACKED.

Several Engineers and Firemen Laid Off and the Shops are Closed Down—Other Railroad News of Local Interest.

Following closely on the heels of the order that laid off the Clover Leaf shop men indefinitely, says the Delphos Herald, there comes another that says the Northern Ohio shops practically must not emit the sound of the stroke of a hammer, until further notice, and that four engineers and three firemen must wait for the prosperity wagon.

The engineers and firemen had an agreement among themselves to work alternately, with the permission of the company, thus enabling each to earn a small amount each month.
This has continued for some time, but the company saw fit to lay off the surplus men, the order taking effect this morning.

Oh, Prosperity! Where art thou?
Where are those good situations at living wages the Republican managers promised so generously when they were losing sleep for fear that right would triumph over might?
By false and alluring promises railroad men, skilled artisans and laboring men were induced to vote for the "advance agent" who billed his show like a circus, but when the time came for promises to be fulfilled the elephant balked, and Mark and Mac-would not so much as use the prod on his tough hide. Verily, the eye of man is soon opened to fraud and trickery, but oftentimes too late.

NOTES.

Conductor J. P. Jackson, of the L.
E. & W., is laying off.

Conductor and Mrs. Asa Ridenour and conductor and Mrs. J. L. Edmiston leave over the C. & E. to-night to attend the session of the Grand Division O. R. C. They will be accompanied by Mrs. D. Cramer.

A BRILLIANT EVENT.

The Wedding of P. A. Kahle and Miss Augusta McKibben.

Married at the Residence of the Bride's Brother at Eight O'clock Last Evening.

Attorney P. A. Kahle and Miss Augusta Rosalind McKibben were the groom and bride at a very pretty home wedding, which occurred at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's brother, Charles W. McKibben, 321 north Main street.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered by Miss Mayme Peate as the bridal party entered the parlor, and the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Watters, pastor of Trinity church. An elaborate wedding supper, served in courses, followed the ceremony, and later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Kahle were driven to their future home on Cole street.

Mr. Kahle's bride is a charming young lady, whose home was until recently at Ballfonte, Penna.

DAMAGE SUITS

To be Filed Against the Lima Oil Men

WHO OWN THE BIG GUSHER

At Alexandria—A Big Well Reported From the Findlay Field—Notes From the Spencerville Field.—Pipe Line Runs.

Representatives of natural gas companies and factories depending upon gas for fuel, says a dispatch from Indianapolis, held a meeting here this afternoon and evening to take measures preventive of the enormous waste of gas consequent upon the boring for oil in Madison county and adjoining fields. It was the opinion that the oil bearing drift extends over the entire gas field, and unless the operations of the oil men are circumscribed the supply of gas will soon be exhausted.

The attorney-general was called into the discussion, and after a free interchange of opinion, it was resolved to proceed against the oil companies by injunction, and to that purpose a bill of equity will be filed at once in the Madison county court.
The oil men are preparing to fight any interference with their operation in the new field. The legal proceedings resolved upon to-day are in addition to what is being done by the state gas inspector under the law of 1896.

Prosecutor Scanlan, of Anderson, said he would file individual damage suits to-morrow against S. S. Long-baugh, William Duffield, M. Zimmerman, John McCombridge, M. Bruner, J. O. Byrns and T. J. Cermody, under the anti-gas waste law, for allowing gas to escape and waste from the oil gusher north of here. They are the owners.

All of the gas companies in the state will have representatives in another conference Friday, at which time action to enjoin the operators will be ordered. This gives the anti-oil people two effectual ways of dealing with the oil men.

A GUSHER NEAR FINDLAY.

A dispatch from Findlay says:
Last Saturday an oil well was drilled into the sand on the Russell farm, in Big Lick township, near Findlay, which is being operated under a lease owned by Charles W.
Baker, of Cincinnati. The well was a wildcat, the Russell farm being located in territory that was abandoned as worthless several years ago.
The first showing was discouraging, but as the drill penetrated the sand
the oil began to flow more freely, and it was thought that a shot of nitro glycerine might make it a fair producer. Yesterday, however, word was received that the oil had begun to flow at a terrific rate, shooting over the top of the derrick and flooding the surrounding country. The available tankage was soon filled, and estimates from the length of time required to fill three large tanks place the daily output of the well at 1,800 or 2,000 barrels, which makes it the largest producing well in the Northwestern Ohio field. Reports from the well last night say that it is keeping up its record, and that a large force of men is at work erecting tankage to take care of the oil, which is going to waste at the rate of about $1,000 worth every 24 hours. The striking of this well has caused the greatest excitement among the producers in this field, and every one is hustling to secure leases in the once worthless territory.

worthless.

ing No. 1 on the George Wolford farm, Spencer township.

G. V. Foreman's No. 5 on the J. N.
Bailey farm, Spencer township, is a good well, and another location will be made.

The Wilson Oil and Gas Co. have commenced No. 1 on the McBride farm, east of town.

The Western Oil company have cased No. 3 on the Hagerman farm, Jennings township.

Smith, Aiken & Sunderland have rigged up No. 6 on the James Sunderland farm, Amanda township.

Foreman's No. 2 on the Henry Miller farm, Spencer township, is in and showing for an average well.

Scott, Mills & Co. have commenced
No. 1 on the Henry Miller farm, west of the canal, Spencer township.

Wm. Cochran has reached the sand in No. 1 on the L. A. Rasoner farm, Noble township, Auglaize county. It showed for oil.

Culbertson & Shell have sold their lease on the Henry Miller farm, Spencer township, to G. A. Foreman, of Buffalo, N. Y. The consideration was well up into the thousands.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Brice Applas Falls From an Apple Tree Onto an Iron Fence.

Two Pickets Penetrate His Left Leg
Near His Hip and Produce Ugly Wounds.

Brice Applas, who lives with his parents on west North street, met with a most painful accident last evening. He was in an apple tree sawing off some old branches, when he became dizzy and fell onto the palings of an iron fence that stood beneath the tree. His left leg struck the fence, and the ends of two iron pickets penetrated the flesh of the thigh. One made a wound about two inches deep and about three inches long. The other wound was not so deep. Dr. Collins was called and found the young man suffering greatly. Fortunately, no bones were broken. The flesh, however, was badly bruised. It required several stitches to close the wound. No serious results are feared.
